

Reference from Care Center

Miniature Equine Therapy Standards Association (METSA) is a member-based organization that promotes and encourages safe practices and sets standards for miniature equine-facilitated activities and therapies, so educators and medical and therapy professionals can have peace of mind and confidence in the equine therapy teams they partner with for their equine facilitated activities. To qualify with METSA at the Master's Level III the handler is required to have a letter of reference from three facilities in which the team has visited.
